

ETM 1: You have agreed to participate in a research study about reading habits. You will have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for taking the time to speak with me. I'd like to ask you some questions about your reading habits. First, what kind of books do your family or friends generally like to read? For example, do they prefer fiction, non-fiction, biographies, or other types?

Answer:

My parents like reading non-fiction books to gain valuable information from them. They also like reading entertaining novels. My sister, however, prefers fiction books, especially comic books. She loves them because she finds them entertaining and enjoyable. On the other hand, my friends and I like reading non-fiction books. We believe that books should be informative, so we prefer reading them to learn new things

Q-2: I see. When you read your favorite book, do you prefer to read it in a quiet place, or do you like to read it where there is some background noise? Why?

Answer:

I definitely prefer reading in a quiet place. I need to concentrate fully on what I am reading. I believe that noisy backgrounds make me nervous and anxious. Therefore, I cannot focus properly to understand the main concepts and gain valuable information from my books. Silence helps me learn better and enjoy the story.

Q-3: Interesting. Next, I'd like to get your opinion. If you have time to read one novel, do you think it more worthwhile to read an old classic that many readers love, or would you choose a newly published novel that tells a modern story? Why?

Answer:

I would choose a newly published novel that tells a modern story. I believe these books are more relevant to our current lives. The characters and situations are easier to understand and relate to. While old classics are valuable, I find modern stories more engaging because they reflect the world we live in today. Reading a new novel helps me connect better with the themes and enjoy the experience more.

Q-4: Good points. I just have one more question. Some people believe that reading helps improve one's imagination and creativity. Do you agree with this idea, or do you think there are other activities that can also enhance these skills? Explain why you think so.

Answer:

I agree that reading improves imagination and creativity. When we read a book, we picture the story in our minds, which is great exercise for the brain. However, I also think other activities can help. For example, painting or playing music allows people to be creative in different ways. So, while reading is very important, doing other artistic activities can also help us improve these skills.

ETM 2: You have volunteered for a research study about dietary habits. You will have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for your participation. Today, I'd like to ask you some questions about your dietary habits. When you have a meal at school or work, do you prefer to eat alone, or do you like to eat with friends or co-workers? Why?

Answer:

I prefer to eat with my friends or co-workers because it is very enjoyable. We can speak with each other, share our stories and memories, and exchange our ideas and opinions. This social interaction helps me reduce my stress and boost my energy. As a result, I can return to my work with a positive mindset.

Q-2: Thank you. And what kind of meals do your family or friends generally like to eat? For example, do they prefer traditional home cooked dishes, fast food, or other types?

Answer:

It really depends on the group. When I am with my friends, we prefer eating fast food because it is affordable and convenient. We can save time and spend it on other activities like playing games or talking, rather than cooking and cleaning. However, with my family, we prefer home-cooked meals. My parents believe in a healthy diet rather than unhealthy options, so we enjoy nutritious food together at home.

Q-3: Interesting. Next, I'd like to get your opinion. In recent years, many people have argued that plant-based diets are better for individual health and for the planet. Do you think that in the future, more people will adopt plant-based diets? Why or why not?

Answer:

Yes, I believe more people will eat plant-based foods in the future. People are becoming more aware of their health and the environment. They know that eating vegetables is good for their bodies and better for the planet. Also, these days, there are many delicious plant-based options in stores. It is becoming easier to find healthy food. I think this trend will continue because everyone wants to live a healthy and sustainable life.

Q-4: Good points. I just have one more question. Some people believe that having regular mealtimes contributes to better health and financial well-being. Do you agree or disagree with this idea? Explain your answer.

Answer:

I agree that having regular mealtimes contributes to better health and financial well-being. First, eating at fixed times helps our digestion and gives us energy throughout the day. It prevents us from getting too hungry and eating unhealthy snacks later. Second, planning meals helps us save money. When we cook at home on a schedule, we spend less than eating out at restaurants. Therefore, regular habits are good for both our body and our wallet.

ETM 3: You have agreed to participate in a research study about exercise habits. You'll have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for taking the time to speak with me. I'd like to ask you some questions about your exercise habits. what kind of exercise do you or your friends like? for example do you like running, swimming, yoga or other types?

Answer:

My friends and I enjoy playing soccer and football. We believe it is an enjoyable sport because we can both exercise and make memorable memories together. It also helps improve our physical health, so we will not suffer from diseases like obesity. In addition, we enjoy swimming. We think the water makes our bodies relaxed and improves our mental health. It is a great way to reduce stress and stay fit.

Q-2: I see. when you exercise, do you prefer to do it alone or do you like to exercise with other people? why?

Answer:

I prefer to exercise with other people, especially my friends and co-workers. First, it makes exercising more enjoyable. We can speak with each other and share ideas, which is interesting and reduces the pressure of working out. In addition, exercising with others encourages me to do it regularly. If I exercise alone, I am less likely to do it on busy days. However, with friends encouraging me, I can stick to my daily routine.

Q-3: Interesting. Next I'd like to get your opinion, in the past most people exercised outdoors but now many people prefer indoor gyms and fitness centers, do you think that in the future, indoor gyms will become even more popular? why or why not?

Answer:

I disagree that indoor gyms will become more popular. I believe people will prefer outdoor activities because they can breathe fresh air. Being in nature leads to better physical and mental health. It helps reduce stress and anxiety while improving overall body health. As people become more aware of these benefits, they will choose outdoor exercise to avoid diseases like obesity. Nature offers a better environment for staying fit. (outdoor activities are free)

Q-4: Good points. I just have one more question. Some people believe that exercising regularly is essential for developing self-discipline. Do you agree with this idea? or do you think there are other activities that can also help build discipline? explain your answer.

Answer:

I agree that exercising regularly is essential for developing self-discipline. You have to force yourself to work out even when you are tired or busy. This builds a strong habit. However, I also think other activities can help build discipline. For example, learning a musical instrument requires daily practice and patience. Studying a new language is another good example. So, while exercise is great, any activity that requires consistency can teach us to be more disciplined.

ETM 4: You have agreed to participate in a research study about hobbies and leisure activities. You'll have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for taking the time to speak with me, about your hobbies and leisure activities. First when you engage in your favorite hobby, do you prefer to do it alone? or do you like to do it with your family or friends? why?

Answer:

One of my favorite hobbies is playing soccer. I prefer doing it with my family or friends because we can talk to each other and share our stories. It helps us laugh and have fun, creating lasting memories together. However, for other hobbies like watching movies, I prefer to be alone. This allows me to concentrate more on the movie without any distractions.

Q-2: Thank you. and do you think it is better to spend free time indoors like in a movie theatre or outdoors in a park? why?

Answer:

I think it is better to spend free time outdoors in a park. Outdoor activities improve people's physical health and help them avoid suffering from diseases like obesity and diabetes. Also, being outside improves mental health. It can boost energy, improve mood, and reduce stress and anxiety. Fresh air and nature are very beneficial for both the body and the mind.

Q-3: Interesting. next I'd like to get your opinion. many people have the same hobbies as their friends. do you think it is necessary for good friends to share hobbies? why or why not?

Answer:

I agree that it is important for good friends to share hobbies. Doing activities together brings friends closer and strengthens their relationship. When friends share a hobby, they can spend more quality time together and create lasting memories. It gives them a chance to have fun and relax. If friends have different interests, they might find it hard to find things to do. Therefore, sharing hobbies helps maintain a strong and happy friendship.

Q-4: Good points. I just have one more question. Some people believe that having hobbies is essential for being happy. do you agree with this idea? or do you think you can live a happy life without having a hobby? explain your answer.

Answer:

I agree that having hobbies is essential for being happy. Hobbies give us a chance to relax and take a break from daily stress. They allow us to do something we truly enjoy, which boosts our mood and energy. Without a hobby, life might feel boring or just focused on work. Doing something we love brings satisfaction and balance to our lives, which is very important for our overall happiness

ETM 5: You have agreed to participate in a research study about studying habits. You'll have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for taking the time to speak with me. I'd like to ask you some questions about your studying habits. First, do you prefer studying alone or with a group? How often do you study?

Answer:

I prefer studying with a group, especially with my friends. It helps us share our ideas and opinions about different subjects. We can explain difficult concepts to each other, which improves learning efficiency and helps us understand hard topics effectively and easily. Also, being in a group encourages us to study harder. We motivate each other to become successful.

Q-2: I see. If you were helping someone prepare for a test, what study methods would you recommend? For example, would you suggest using practice tests, taking notes, or something else?

Answer:

I would recommend using a mix of methods. First, taking notes is essential because it helps students remember important information. Second, practice tests are very useful to check your progress and get used to the exam format. Combining these methods is the best approach. It ensures that you understand the material deeply and are fully prepared for the test.

Q-3: Interesting. Next, I'd like to get your opinion. In recent years, many people have started using digital tools and online apps to study. Do you think these methods should be used in schools or only for personal study? Explain your answer.

Answer:

I think digital tools should be used in schools because they encourage students to study more. These tools offer several helpful features, like allowing students to open multiple books at the same time. They can also highlight important sentences easily. In the classroom, apps can make lessons more interactive and engaging. They allow teachers to explain difficult concepts visually. Also, using these tools in school prepares students for their future jobs. Therefore, schools should integrate technology to improve the quality of education.

Q-4: Good points. I just have one more question. Some people believe that having good study habits is essential for academic success. Do you agree with this idea? Or do you think there are other factors that contribute to academic success? Explain why you think so.

Answer:

I agree that good study habits are essential for success. If you study every day, you will learn better and remember more. However, I also think other factors are important. For example, having a good teacher and a quiet place to study helps a lot. Also, you need to be motivated. If you are interested in the subject, you will do better. So, good habits are important, but support and motivation are also necessary.

ETM 6: You have volunteered for a research study about work-life balance. You'll have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for your participation. Today, I'd like to ask you some questions about your work-life balance. First, what kind of activities do people from your country do after their workday is done? For example, do they prefer exercising, reading, or other activities?

Answer:

People in my country enjoy various activities after work. For example, my family prefers doing physical activities like walking in the park or jogging. They also enjoy household activities like cooking and cleaning. My neighbors prefer reading books or having picnics together. However, my friends and I prefer eating out at famous restaurants. It is convenient and enjoyable, and it helps us create long-lasting memories together.

Q-2: I see. When you need to take a break from work or studies, do you prefer to spend time alone, or do you like to be with others? Why?

Answer:

I prefer to spend time with others. It helps me reduce my stress and anxiety caused by the hustle and bustle of the city and work pressure. In fact, we can speak to each other and make long-lasting memories together. In addition, being with others allows us to divide tasks between each other, which makes things easier and faster.

Q-3: Interesting. Next, I'd like to get your opinion. In recent years, many companies have started offering flexible working hours and remote work options to help employees achieve better work-life balance. Do you think that in the future, more companies will adopt these practices? Why or why not?

Answer:

Yes, I believe more companies will adopt these practices. Remote work options help employees save time. In fact, they do not need to commute to their workplaces or get stuck in heavy traffic. They can spend this time on other productive activities like reading and exercising. Also, remote work helps people save money, which they can spend on other purposes like purchasing clothes. Furthermore, flexible working hours help employees manage their duties without feeling pressure. This strategy helps them be more productive and find new ways to solve problems.

Q-4: good points. I just have one more question some people believe that maintaining a good work-life balance is essential for overall well-being do you agree with this idea or do you think there are other important factors to consider explain why you think so

Answer:

I agree that maintaining a good work-life balance is essential for overall well-being. If people work hard without breaks, they will feel tired and overwhelmed. However, taking breaks helps reduce stress and anxiety, and improves mood and energy. Therefore, they can return to their jobs with a positive mindset. On the other hand, other activities also contribute to well-being. Doing physical activities like walking and jogging helps improve physical health, which is also very important.

ET 1: You have volunteered for a research study about commuting habits. You will have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for joining the study. Today, I'd like to ask you some questions about your commuting habits. First, is it important to live close to your school or work? Why?

Answer:

Yes, I think it is very important. Living close to my school or work helps me save a lot of time. I do not need to commute long distances, so I can spend that time on other productive activities like reading. Also, it helps me save money on transportation. I can use this money for other purposes, like purchasing clothes or saving for the future.

Q-2: I see. Imagine that you could choose to commute by car, which is faster but more expensive, or by public transportation, which is slower but less expensive. Which would you choose, and why?

Answer:

I would choose public transportation because it helps me save money. The cost is always important to me, and I can spend the saved money on other purposes like purchasing clothes. Also, public transport is convenient because I do not need to worry about finding parking for my car or getting stuck in heavy traffic. It makes my daily life much easier and less stressful.

Q-3: Interesting. Some people believe that commuting can be stressful and tiring. What do you think are one or two different ways to make commuting more enjoyable? Give reasons for your answer.

Answer:

First, listening to music during the commute is a great way to make it enjoyable. For example, when I listen to music, it makes me happy and improves my mood. It boosts my energy, so I can do my daily tasks properly. Second, reading a book or an article is another effective method. It helps me use the time productively to learn new things. Reading distracts me from the traffic and makes the trip feel shorter.

Q-4: Good points. Lastly, considering advances in technology, some people believe that commuting might disappear entirely. How do you think a severe decline in commuting might affect businesses in positive ways and negative ways? Please give one example of each.

Answer:

On the negative side, local communities might lose their customers, which can have negative effects on their economy. For example, small shops near offices depend on people walking in every day. If people stop commuting, these businesses could lose money and close. On the positive side, businesses might save money on office space and rent. If employees work from home, companies do not need large buildings, which reduces their costs significantly

ET 2: You have agreed to take part in a research study about urban life. You will have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Interviewer: Thank you for speaking with me today. Now I'd like you to think back to the last time you visited a city in your country, a city that you didn't live in, why did you travel to that city? what did you like about that city?

Answer:

Last year, my family and I traveled to Shomal, one of the most beautiful cities in my country, Iran. We went there for a five-day vacation. We did many activities, such as swimming in the sea and having picnics together. We also visited the jungles, which improved my mood and boosted my energy. We spoke with each other every day and shared our experiences and stories, which helped us create long-lasting memories together. I hope we can travel there again this year.

Q-2: Interviewer: Great. Cities affect people in different ways. Some people find cities dynamic and exciting. Others find that cities are overwhelming and drain them of energy. What kind of reaction do you have to cities? Why do you think you react in this way?

Answer:

I find cities dynamic and exciting. First, there are many entertainment options like cinemas and parks, so I never feel bored. Second, cities offer great job opportunities and modern facilities that make life easier. I react this way because I enjoy the fast pace of life. Being around many people and activities gives me energy and motivation to work harder.

Q-3: Interviewer: OK. Next, I'd like to ask your opinion. Some people believe that those who live in cities lead more interesting lives. They would argue, for example, that people who live in cities have more access to professional opportunities and interesting leisure activities. Do you agree that people who live in cities lead more interesting lives? Why or why not?

Answer:

Yes, I agree that people in cities lead more interesting lives. First, they have better access to professional opportunities. There are more companies and jobs available, which helps them grow their careers faster. Second, cities offer a wide range of leisure activities. People can visit museums, go to concerts, or try new restaurants anytime. This variety makes their daily life more exciting and less boring compared to living in rural areas

Q-4: Interviewer: Good points. Let me ask you one final question. For some time now, researchers have been interested in whether green spaces, such as parks, make people who live in cities happier. Do you think that city governments should create more parks in urban areas to promote a general sense of happiness and life satisfaction? Why or why not?

Answer:

I agree that city governments should create more parks. First, it helps people's physical health. By creating more parks, people are encouraged to do activities like walking and jogging. This improves their health and prevents diseases like obesity. Second, it helps mental health. Green spaces improve mood and boost energy. For example, a short walk after a hard day helps me refresh my mind and clear negative thoughts. This allows me to return to work with a positive mindset.

ET 3: You have volunteered for a research study about work-life balance. You will have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for participating. Today, I'd like to ask you some questions about your work-life balance. First, can you share one or two strategies that you use that you think are effective in managing your work-life balance?

Answer:

One strategy I use is setting a specific time to stop working. When I finish my job, I turn off my computer to focus on my family. This helps me relax completely. Another strategy is exercising regularly. Going for a run or playing sports helps me reduce stress and clear my mind. These simple habits allow me to maintain a healthy balance between my professional life and my personal time.

Q-2: I see. Many companies are now developing programs to help employees manage work-life balance. Would programs like this affect your interest in working for a particular company? Why or why not?

Answer:

Yes, these programs would definitely affect my interest. I would prefer to work for a company that cares about its employees. If a company offers flexible hours or support, it shows they value me. This makes me feel more motivated and happy. A good work-life balance is very important to me. Therefore, I would choose a job that helps me maintain a healthy balance between work and my personal life.

Q-3: Interesting. Some companies also offer flexible working hours or remote work options to help employees achieve a better work-life balance, but they are concerned that these options would reduce employee attention to tasks or engagement in the workplace. Do you think such programs are a good strategy for companies? Why or why not?

Answer:

Yes, I think these programs are a good strategy. First, flexible hours allow employees to work when they are most productive, which actually improves the quality of their work. Second, remote work saves time on commuting. This means employees are less tired and can focus better on their tasks. Instead of worrying about traffic, they can use that energy to finish their jobs efficiently. Therefore, these options can actually increase attention and engagement rather than reduce it.

Q-4: Good points. Lastly, looking to the future, do you think people's attitudes towards work-life balance will change? For example, do you think people will prioritize personal life over work, or work over personal life? Explain your thoughts.

Answer:

I think people will prioritize work over personal life in the future. Due to the advancement of technology, the speed of life will increase, and people will have to work more to keep up. In addition, the inflation rate is increasing in most countries. People will need to earn more money to afford their expenses. Therefore, financial pressure and a faster lifestyle will force people to focus more on their jobs than their personal time.

ET 4: You have volunteered for a research study about exercise habits. You will have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you Some questions. Please answer the interviewer's questions.

Q-1: Thank you for taking part in this study. Today, I'd like to ask you some questions about your exercise habits. First, can you describe the type of exercise you or someone you know typically does regularly, such as running, yoga, or weightlifting? Why?

Answer:

My friend and I like playing soccer. We often play it at least two or three times a week because we believe it is interesting and exciting. It also helps improve our physical health. In addition, I usually go to the gym with my close friend. This habit helps my physical health, improves my mood, and boosts my energy.

Q-2: I see. Some exercise programs are done alone, and some are designed to be done with others. Would you prefer to exercise alone, or would you prefer to exercise with others? Why?

Answer:

I would prefer to exercise with others, especially with my close friends. This habit helps us speak with each other, share our ideas, and makes exercising more enjoyable. In fact, when I exercise with my friends, I do not feel as much pressure as when I do it alone. In addition, this behavior helps me stay motivated and full of energy. My friends encourage me to exercise regularly, even on hard and busy days.

Q-3: Interesting. Some people believe that exercising outdoors is both more beneficial and more enjoyable than exercising indoors. Do you agree or disagree and why?

Answer:

I agree that exercising outdoors is more beneficial and enjoyable. First, it is good for people's physical health. Fresh air and natural movement improve their physical well-being. Second, it is beneficial for mental health. Being in nature improves mood, boosts energy, and reduces stress and anxiety. Therefore, exercising outside is better for both the body and the mind.

Q-4: Good points. Lastly, I would like to ask about using fitness apps. Some people like to use fitness apps on smart phones to organize their fitness schedules. Do you agree this is a good way to keep track of your exercising goals? Why or why not?

Answer:

Yes, I agree that fitness apps are a good way to keep track of exercising goals. First, they help us stay motivated because we can easily see our progress on the screen. Seeing our improvement makes us want to work harder. Second, these apps encourage us to exercise more. They remind us to work out and push us to reach our daily targets. This technology makes it much easier to maintain a healthy routine.

Real-1: As part of a university project, you have agreed to take part in a short research interview about health and wellness habits. A graduate student conducting the research will ask you some questions online

Q-1: Thank you for agreeing to participate. I'd like to ask you some questions about your health and wellness habits. First, do you have any specific routines or practices you use to maintain your physical well-being? If so, what are they?

Answer:

First, I try to go to the gym, especially with my best friends. This habit helps my physical health and well-being, improves my mood, and boosts my energy. Second, I try to choose healthy options during the day, such as fruits and vegetables. This behavior helps my body and avoids suffering from several diseases like obesity and diabetes. In addition, I try to go to bed early at night to have quality sleep. This helps me stay focused and energetic during the day.

Q-2: Thank you. Can you describe any dietary choices or habits that you follow to stay healthy? Give details to explain your answer.

Answer:

To stay healthy, I try to follow a balanced diet. I make sure to eat fresh fruits and vegetables every day because they provide essential vitamins. I also avoid fast food and sugary drinks as much as possible because they can be harmful. Instead, I drink plenty of water and cook my meals at home using healthy ingredients. These habits help me maintain my energy and keep my immune system strong.

Q-3: Interesting. If you could make one significant change to your diet or exercise routine to stay healthy, what would it be? Why would you make that particular choice?

Answer:

If I could make one significant change, I would decrease eating out with my friends. I would avoid harmful foods like fast food and sugary drinks. Instead, I would choose to drink more water and cook healthy meals at home. This change is important because fast food can cause health problems like obesity. Cooking at home allows me to use fresh ingredients, which is much better for my body and overall well-being.

Q-4: Great. Some people believe that mental health is just as important as physical health, and should be given equal attention. Do you agree or disagree with this viewpoint? Why?

Answer:

I totally agree that mental health is just as important as physical health. Our mind controls our body, so if we are stressed or anxious, our physical health will suffer too. Paying attention to mental health helps us manage stress and enjoy life more. If we ignore it, we cannot function properly, even if we are physically fit. Therefore, we must give equal attention to both to have a balanced and healthy life.

Real-2: You have volunteered for a research study at your university about hobbies. You will have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions

Q-1: Thank you for agreeing to participate. I'd like to ask you some questions about hobbies. To begin, do you have a hobby or interest that you regularly spend time doing?

Answer:

I play soccer with my friends at least two or three times a week. In fact, it helps my physical health and improves my mood and energy. I also have picnics with my family in a park or green spaces every month. It helps my mental health and improves my mood, so I can return to work feeling refreshed.

Q-2: Thank you. If you were to select a new hobby, what would you choose and why?

Answer:

If I were to select a new hobby, I would choose going to the gym regularly. It helps both my mental and physical health. Exercising keeps my body strong and fit. Also, working out reduces my stress and boosts my energy. It is a great way to stay healthy and happy.

Q-3: Interesting. Now tell me what might prevent you from starting this new pastime.

Answer:

The main thing that might prevent me is my busy schedule. Between work and studying, I might not have enough time to go to the gym regularly. Also, the cost of a gym membership could be a barrier. If it is too expensive, it might be difficult for me to afford it right now.

Q-4: Great. Some people believe it is better to have one interest outside of work or school that you dedicate yourself to rather than multiple smaller ones. What do you think about that and why?

Answer:

I think it is better to have one main interest that you dedicate yourself to. Focusing on one hobby allows you to improve your skills deeply and become an expert at it. If you have too many hobbies, you might not have enough time to enjoy any of them properly. Dedication brings better results and more satisfaction than doing many things superficially.

Real-3: You have volunteered for a research study about people's experiences with commuting. You will have a short online interview with a researcher. The researcher will ask you some questions.

Q-1: Thank you for your willingness to participate today. I'd like to ask you some questions about your experiences with commuting. first, what kinds of places do you usually go to during the week? and how do you get there?

Answer:

During the week, I usually go to my friends' and family's homes, as well as my university and workplace. I use my private car when I visit friends and family because it is convenient and easy. However, I use public transportation when I go to my university and workplace. This is because I do not need to worry about finding parking or getting stuck in heavy traffic.

Q-2: Got it. can you describe how someone in your family or a friend, usually travels to work or school? how much time does it take? and what transportation does the person use?

Answer:

My father travels to his workplace using the public transportation system. It usually takes about one hour to get there. He takes the bus or the subway because they are convenient. Also, he does not need to worry about finding a parking spot or getting stuck in heavy traffic.

Q-3: Ok thanks. next question. Some people believe that living close to work or school improves quality of life, while others think location doesn't matter much. What do you think? and why?

Answer:

I think living close to work or school definitely improves quality of life. First, it helps people save time. They can spend this saved time on other productive activities like reading and exercising. Second, it allows people to save money on transportation costs. They can spend this extra money on other purposes, like purchasing clothes or saving for the future. Therefore, it makes life much easier and more efficient.

Q-4: Great. final question. Some people believe that employers should reimburse employees for their commuting costs, while others think that employees should pay for their own travel to work. which do you agree with? and why?

Answer:

I agree that employers should reimburse employees for their commuting costs. First, it shows that the company pays attention to its staff and cares about them. Second, it helps employees save money. They can spend this money on other purposes, like purchasing clothes. As a result, this encourages employees to work harder and better for the company. This can improve the company's productivity and efficiency.

Real-4: You received an email from your university inviting you to join a research study about personal finance. You have scheduled a short online interview with a researcher to answer a few questions.

Q-1: Thank you for agreeing to participate. I'd like to ask you some questions about your personal finance habits. First, how often do you review your money management, for example tracking your expenses? or budgeting? Do you do this weekly, monthly, or less often?

Answer:

I review my money management on a weekly basis. Every Sunday, I sit down and track all my expenses from the past week. I also check my budget to see if I spent more than I planned. This habit helps me stay organized and ensures I don't waste money. By doing it weekly, I can fix any financial issues immediately before they become big problems. (have budgeting plan before occurring unexpected situation. Reduce stress)

Q-2: Thank you. Can you describe one or two methods you or someone you know uses to manage their finances? for example do you use budgeting apps or keep a written record?

Answer:

I use financial apps to manage my money. These apps help me stay organized and ensure I do not waste money. I use them for small purchases, like snacks, so I do not forget anything. However, for main purchases, I prefer to keep written records. Writing down big expenses helps me remember them clearly and keep track of my budget more effectively.

Q-3: Interesting. Can you tell me about a financial goal you achieved recently? What motivated you to achieve this goal?

Recently, I achieved my goal of saving enough money to buy a new laptop. What motivated me was that my old computer was very slow and it made my studies difficult. I really needed a faster device for my university projects. So, I stopped spending money on unnecessary things like eating out. It took a few months, but finally buying the laptop made me feel very accomplished and proud

Q-4: Great. Some people believe that fiscal responsibility education should be mandatory in schools and it helps students to function effectively as adults. Do you agree or disagree with this idea? why?

Answer:

I totally agree with this idea. I believe that understanding how to save money is essential for everyone. If students learn this in school, they will be prepared for the future. They will know how to budget their salary and avoid debt when they start working. This knowledge helps them function effectively as adults and make smart financial decisions. Without this education, young people might waste their money and face serious financial problems later in life.

Real-5: As part of a university project, you have agreed to take part in a short research interview about public transportation. A graduate student conducting the research will ask you some questions online.

Q-1: Thank you for agreeing to participate. I'd like to ask you some questions about public transportation. First, how often do you use public transportation?

Answer:

I use public transportation almost every day. When I go to my workplace or university, I try to take the bus because it is convenient. I do not need to worry about finding a parking spot or getting stuck in heavy traffic. When I want to visit my friends or family, I prefer to use the subway because it is fast.

Q-2: Thank you. Can you describe any benefits or disadvantages you might experience from using public transportation?

Answer:

On the positive side, it is convenient. We do not need to worry about finding parking for our private cars or getting stuck in heavy traffic. This helps us save time and spend it on other productive activities like exercising. On the negative side, public transportation might sometimes be slow and expensive compared to driving. public transportation is sometimes slow and expensive compared to driving. Buses and trains often run late, which causes delays and makes me late for my appointments. Also, the cost of monthly tickets has increased recently. If I drive my own car, I can save money in the long run, especially if I travel with my family.

Q-3: Interesting. Would you consider moving in order to have better access to public transportation? Why? or Why not?

Answer:

Yes, I would consider moving to have better access to public transportation. It helps me save a lot of time because I do not need to use my private car or worry about finding parking and getting stuck in heavy traffic. I can spend this saved time on productive activities such as reading books and exercising. Also, it encourages me to use buses or trains instead of a private car, which can improve air quality and help the environment.

Q-4: Great. Some people believe that cities should invest more in public transportation to reduce traffic congestion and reduce commuting time and pollution. do you agree or disagree with this idea? Why?

Answer:

I totally agree that cities should invest more in public transportation. First, it helps people save time. Better systems mean fewer delays and faster commutes. Second, it helps people save money on fuel and car maintenance. Finally, improving public transport can significantly improve air quality. If more people leave their cars at home and take the bus or train, there will be less pollution. This creates a healthier environment for everyone.
