

1.

You recently joined a student organization at your university that focuses on environmental conservation. The group is planning an upcoming event to raise awareness about recycling and reducing waste. You have some ideas for activities and would like to share them with the group leader, Julia. Write an email to Julia. In your email, do the following: • Describe your ideas for the awareness event. • Explain why you believe these activities will be effective. • Offer to help organize and implement the activities. Write as much as you can and in complete sentences.

Dear Julia,

I hope you are doing well. I'm writing to share a few ideas for our upcoming environmental awareness event about recycling and reducing waste. I think we could organize three main activities: a recycling sorting game, a short student presentation about waste reduction, and a table where students can exchange reusable items such as notebooks, bottles, or tote bags. These activities would be effective because they are interactive rather than just informative. Students are more likely to remember the message if they participate directly and see how small daily choices can reduce waste. I would be happy to help prepare the materials, design posters, or manage one of the activity tables during the event.

Best regards,
Rozhin

2.

You and your friend, John, are planning a trip to Europe this summer. You have done some research and found some interesting destinations and activities that you would like to include in your itinerary. You want to share your ideas with John and get his opinion. Write an email to John. In your email, do the following: • Describe the destinations you have researched. • Explain why you think these destinations would be enjoyable. • Ask for his opinion on the suggested itinerary and any additional ideas he might have. Write as much as you can and in complete sentences.

Hi John,

I hope you're doing well. I did some research for our Europe trip this summer, and I found a few destinations that could be really enjoyable. First, I think we should consider Paris because it has beautiful architecture, famous museums, and many cafés where we could relax after sightseeing. I also looked into Barcelona, which seems perfect if we want a mix of culture, beaches, and lively streets. Another option is Rome, especially if we are interested in history and traditional food. I think these places would give us a nice balance of sightseeing, relaxation, and cultural experiences. What do you think about this itinerary? I'd love to hear your opinion and any other cities or activities you want to add.

Best,

3.

You recently purchased a piece of furniture for your dorm room from an online store called 'Home Comforts.' When the item arrived, you discovered that it was damaged during shipping. You are disappointed because you were looking forward to using the new furniture. You need to contact customer service to resolve the issue. Write an email to the customer service representative, Ms. Brown. In your email, do the following:

- Describe the item you purchased and the damage it sustained.
- Explain why you are disappointed with the situation.
- Request a replacement or a refund for the damaged item.

Dear Ms. Brown,

I am writing to report a problem with a desk chair I recently purchased from Home Comforts for my dorm room. Unfortunately, when the package arrived, I noticed that the chair had been damaged during shipping. One of the legs is cracked, and the backrest is scratched in several places. I was disappointed because I had been waiting for this item and planned to use it while studying in my room. At the moment, the chair does not feel safe or comfortable enough to use. Could you please let me know whether it would be possible to receive a replacement or a full refund? I can send photos of the damage and my order number if needed.

Sincerely,

4.

You recently purchased a piece of furniture for your dorm room from an online store called 'Home Comforts.' When the item arrived, you discovered that it was damaged during shipping. You are disappointed because you were looking forward to using the new furniture. You need to contact customer service to resolve the issue. Write an email to the customer service representative, Ms. Brown. In your email, do the following:

- Describe the item you purchased and the damage it sustained.
- Explain why you are disappointed with the situation.
- Request a replacement or a refund for the damaged item.

Dear Ms. Brown,

I hope you are well. I recently ordered a small bookshelf from Home Comforts for my dorm room, but it arrived damaged. When I opened the package, I saw that two of the wooden panels were cracked, and one corner was badly dented. Because of this damage, I cannot assemble the bookshelf properly, and I am worried that it may not be stable enough to hold my books. I am especially disappointed because I needed this item to organize my study materials before the start of the semester. Could you please arrange either a replacement or a refund for this order? I would appreciate your help in resolving this issue as soon as possible.

Best regards,

5.

You recently started going to yoga classes at your university gym. You have been enjoying the sessions overall, but you have experienced some back pain and would like advice from the instructor, Ms. Martinez, on how to modify your practice to avoid further discomfort. Write an email to Ms. Martinez. In your email, do the following:

- Mention how much you enjoy the yoga classes.
- Describe the back pain you are experiencing.
- Ask for advice on how to modify your practice to prevent discomfort.

I hope you are doing well. I wanted to let you know that I have really been enjoying your yoga classes at the university gym. Your explanations are clear, and the atmosphere of the class is very calming. However, after the last two sessions, I noticed some discomfort in my lower back, especially after poses that involve bending forward or holding my balance for a long time. The pain is not severe, but I do not want it to get worse or affect my ability to continue attending the class. Could you please advise me on how I can modify some poses or warm up more effectively? I would really appreciate any suggestions you have.

Best regards,

6.

You are a university student living in a dormitory. Recently, you have noticed that the internet connection in your dormitory is very slow and often disconnects. This issue is making it difficult for you to complete your assignments and attend online classes. You want to report this problem to the dormitory manager, Mr. Evans, and request a solution. Write an email to Mr. Evans. In your email, do the following:

- Describe the issue with the internet connection.
- Explain how this problem is affecting your studies.
- Request that the internet connection be improved as soon as possible.

Dear Mr. Evans,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing to report an ongoing problem with the internet connection in our dormitory. Over the past week, the connection has been extremely slow and has disconnected several times, especially in the evening. This issue is making it difficult for me to complete assignments, upload documents, and attend online classes without interruption. Yesterday, I was disconnected twice during an online lecture, and I missed part of the professor's explanation. Since many students rely on the dormitory internet for academic work, I would appreciate it if this problem could be checked as soon as possible. Could you please arrange for the connection to be inspected or improved?

Best regards,

7.

You recently joined a new yoga class at your local community center. The instructor, Mr. Davis, has been very welcoming and helpful. However, you find the class schedule inconvenient and would prefer if the classes were held at a different time that fits better with your daily routine. Write an email to Mr. Davis. In your email, do the following:

- Thank him for his support and guidance in the yoga class.
- Explain why the current class schedule is inconvenient for you.
- Suggest alternative times that would work better for you and possibly other participants.

Dear Mr. Davis,

I hope you are doing well. I wanted to thank you for your support and guidance in the yoga class. I have really enjoyed the sessions so far, and your instructions have helped me feel more confident as a beginner. However, I wanted to mention that the current class schedule is a little inconvenient for me. Since the class is held in the early afternoon, it often conflicts with my work and study responsibilities. I think some other participants may have the same problem, especially those who have daytime classes or jobs. Would it be possible to consider holding the class in the evening, perhaps around 6 p.m., or on Saturday mornings? Thank you for considering my suggestion.

Best regards,

8.

You are a college student taking a biology course. You have been struggling with some recent assignments and have decided to seek help from your professor, Dr. Smith. You want to understand the topics better and improve your grades. *Write an email to Dr. Smith. In your email, do the following: • Mention the specific topics you are struggling with. • Ask for suggestions on how to improve your understanding. • Request a meeting with Dr. Smith to discuss further.

Dear Dr. Smith,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing because I have been struggling with some of the recent assignments in our biology course, especially the topics related to cell division and genetic inheritance. I understand the general ideas when they are introduced in class, but I have difficulty applying them to problem-solving questions and written explanations. I would appreciate any suggestions you may have for improving my understanding, such as specific textbook sections, practice problems, or online resources. Also, would it be possible to meet with you during office hours or at another convenient time this week? I would like to discuss my difficulties in more detail and make a plan to improve my performance.

Sincerely,

9.

You recently purchased a new kitchen appliance from a store called 'Home Essentials.' After using it for a few days, you noticed some problems with it. You want to inform the customer service representative, Ms. Parker, about the issue. Write an email to Ms. Parker. In your email, do the following: • Describe the issue you are experiencing with the kitchen appliance. • Explain why this issue is problematic for you. • Request a replacement or repair for the appliance.

Dear Ms. Parker,

I am writing to report a problem with a blender I recently purchased from Home Essentials. After using it for only a few days, I noticed that the motor makes an unusually loud noise, and the blades stop moving after less than a minute. I followed the instructions carefully and did not overload the appliance, but the problem continues. This is inconvenient because I bought the blender to prepare quick meals and smoothies during my busy school week. Since the product is almost new, I would like to request either a repair or a replacement. Please let me know what steps I should take next and whether I need to bring the item to the store.

Sincerely,

10.

You recently purchased a new kitchen appliance from a store called 'Home Essentials.' After using it for a few days, you noticed some problems with it. You want to inform the customer service representative, Ms. Parker, about the issue. Write an email to Ms. Parker. In your email, do the following: • Describe the issue you are experiencing with the kitchen appliance. • Explain why this issue is problematic for you. • Request a replacement or repair for the appliance. Write as much as you can and in complete sentences.

Dear Ms. Parker,

I hope you are well. I recently purchased an electric kettle from Home Essentials, but after a few days of use, it started having problems. The kettle turns off before the water fully boils, and sometimes the power button does not stay down. I checked the outlet and followed the user instructions, but the issue still happens every time I try to use it. This is frustrating because I bought the kettle for daily use in my dorm room, especially for making tea and quick meals while studying. Since the appliance appears to be defective, could you please let me know if I can receive a replacement or have it repaired? I would appreciate your assistance.

Best regards,

11.

You are a student who missed an important lecture in your biology class. You need to catch up on the material and want to ask a classmate. Maria, for her notes and any key information you missed. You also want to thank her in advance for her help. Write an email to Maria. In your email, do the following: • Explain why you did not attend the lecture. • Request her help and ask her if she has time available to help you catch up. • Thank her in advance for her assistance.

Hi Maria,

I hope you're doing well. I'm sorry to bother you, but I missed our biology lecture yesterday because I had a medical appointment that I could not reschedule. I heard that the professor covered some important material related to genetics, and I'm worried about falling behind before the next assignment. Would you be willing to share your notes with me? Also, if you have some time this week, could we meet briefly so you can explain the main points I missed? I know you are probably busy too, so even a quick summary would be very helpful. Thank you in advance for your help. I really appreciate it, and I'd be happy to return the favor anytime.

Best,

12.

Your professor, Dr. Smith recently assigned a group project due in two weeks. You are frustrated because not all of your group members are contributing equally to the project. Write an email to Dr. Smith. In your email, do the following: • Describe the issue you are facing with your group members. • Describe your specific contribution to the project. • Explain why you and the group have been unable to address this issue.

Dear Dr. Smith,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing about the group project that is due in two weeks. Unfortunately, our group has been having some difficulty because not all members are contributing equally. A few students have missed our meetings and have not completed the sections they agreed to work on. So far, I have prepared the outline, collected several academic sources, and written the first draft of the introduction and methods section. I also created a shared document to help the group organize our tasks. We have tried to address the issue by sending reminders and dividing the work clearly, but the situation has not improved. Could you please advise us on how we should handle this fairly?

Sincerely,

13.

You are organizing a team-building retreat for the whole class. You have found a suitable resort for the event and need to contact the resort manager, Ms. Taylor, to discuss the reservation details. Write an email to Ms. Taylor. In your email, do the following: • Explain the purpose of the retreat and why you chose this particular resort. • Ask about the special dietary options offered. • Inquire about the recreational activities offered at the resort.

Dear Ms. Taylor,

I hope you are doing well. I am organizing a team-building retreat for my class, and we are interested in holding the event at your resort. We chose your location because it seems peaceful, spacious, and suitable for group activities outside the classroom. The purpose of the retreat is to help students communicate better, build trust, and become more comfortable working together on future class projects. Before making a reservation, I would like to ask about a few details. First, do you offer special dietary options, such as vegetarian, vegan, or gluten-free meals? Also, could you please let me know what recreational activities are available for student groups? Information about pricing and group packages would also be appreciated.

Best regards,

14.

You recently stayed at a hotel called 'Coastal Retreat' during your vacation. While you were generally satisfied with the service, there were several problems with the room's features and overall condition. You want to inform the hotel manager, Mr. Rodriguez, about these issues.

Write an email to Mr. Rodriguez. In your email, do the following:

- Describe the issues you encountered with the room.
- Explain how these issues affected your stay.
- Request some form of compensation for the inconvenience caused.

Dear Mr. Rodriguez,

I hope you are well. I recently stayed at Coastal Retreat during my vacation, and although I was generally satisfied with the staff's politeness, I experienced several problems with my room. The air conditioner did not work properly, the bathroom sink drained very slowly, and one of the lamps beside the bed was broken. These issues made my stay less comfortable than I expected. The room became too warm at night, and I had difficulty sleeping. I also had to spend extra time calling the front desk and waiting for assistance. Because these problems affected the quality of my stay, I would like to ask whether some form of compensation, such as a partial refund or discount, would be possible.

Sincerely,

15.

You are part of your school's drama club and have been assigned the role of event coordinator for an upcoming play. You need to arrange for promotional materials, such as posters and flyers, to be printed and distributed. You want to contact a local print shop to discuss this. Write an email to the print shop manager, Ms. Clark. In your email, do the following:

- Describe the event and its importance.
- Ask about their services for printing promotional materials.
- Inquire about the costs and turnaround time for printing.

Dear Ms. Clark,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing on behalf of my school's drama club. We are preparing for an upcoming play, and I have been assigned as the event coordinator. Since this performance is one of our most important events of the semester, we would like to create attractive posters and flyers to promote it around campus and in the local community. Could you please let me know what printing services your shop offers for promotional materials? We are interested in color posters, smaller flyers, and possibly a few large banners. I would also appreciate information about the estimated cost, available paper options, and turnaround time. We hope to distribute the materials by next week.

Best regards,

16.

You are a university student who has recently moved into a new apartment. You have noticed some issues with the apartment. You want to inform your landlord, Mr. Thompson, about these problems. Write an email to Mr. Thompson. In your email, do the following: • Describe the issues you have encountered in the apartment. • Explain how conditions negatively affect your studies. • Request that he make arrangements to address these issues soon.

Dear Mr. Thompson,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing to inform you about several issues I have noticed since moving into the apartment. First, the kitchen sink has been leaking, and water collects under the cabinet whenever I use it. Second, the bedroom window does not close completely, which makes the room cold and noisy at night. Finally, one of the electrical outlets near my desk does not work. These problems are affecting my studies because I cannot sleep well, and I have difficulty using my laptop and lamp in a comfortable study space. Could you please arrange for someone to inspect and repair these issues soon? I would be available most afternoons this week if maintenance needs access to the apartment.

Best regards,

17.

You recently joined a student organization at your university that focuses on environmental conservation. The group is planning an upcoming event to raise awareness about recycling and reducing waste. You have some ideas for activities and would like to share them with the group leader, Julia. Write an email to Julia. In your email, do the following: • Describe your ideas for the awareness event. • Explain why you believe these activities will be effective. • Offer to help organize and implement the activities.

Dear Julia,

I hope you are doing well. I'm excited about the environmental conservation event our organization is planning, and I wanted to share a few ideas. I think we could set up an information booth showing how long common items, such as plastic bottles and paper cups, take to decompose. We could also organize a "bring your own bottle" challenge and give small rewards to students who participate. Another idea is to invite students to write one realistic waste-reduction promise on a board. These activities would be effective because they make the issue personal and practical instead of abstract. I would be happy to help design the posters, contact volunteers, or assist with setting up the event.

Best regards,

18.

You recently attended your university's choir concert and had a great experience. However, you left your favorite jacket behind. You need to contact the university's lost and found department. Write an email to the lost and found manager, Ms. Davis. In your email, do the following: • Explain when and where you left your jacket. • Describe the jacket in detail. • Suggest a solution for the issue.

Dear Ms. Davis,

I hope you are doing well. I recently attended the university choir concert on Friday evening, and I believe I accidentally left my jacket behind in the concert hall. I was sitting near the middle section, close to the left aisle, and I think I placed the jacket on the back of my chair during the performance. The jacket is dark blue, medium-sized, and has a silver zipper. There is also a small pocket on the inside with my student ID card in it. This jacket is important to me, so I would be very grateful if you could check whether it has been turned in to lost and found. If it has been found, please let me know when I can pick it up.

Best regards,

19.

Your classmate Emma recently hosted a charity event on campus to raise funds for a local animal shelter. The event was successful overall, but there were some issues with the catering service, including delayed food delivery and incorrect orders. You need to address these concerns to the catering manager, Ms. Johnson. Write an email to Ms. Johnson. In your email, do the following: • Thank her for the service provided. • Describe the issues that occurred during the event. • Suggest how these issues could be resolved in future events.

Dear Ms. Johnson,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing regarding the catering service provided for the charity event that my classmate Emma hosted on campus to raise funds for a local animal shelter. First, I would like to thank you and your team for supporting the event. Overall, the event was successful, and we appreciated having food available for guests. However, there were a few issues that caused difficulties. The food arrived almost thirty minutes late, and several of the orders were incorrect, including some vegetarian meals that were missing. As a result, a few guests had to wait longer than expected or could not eat the food provided. For future events, I suggest confirming the order list in advance and sending a delivery update if there is any delay.

Best regards,

20.

You are a student who recently borrowed a book from the university library. Unfortunately, you accidentally damaged the book. You want to inform the librarian, Mr. Anderson, about the incident and inquire about the steps you need to take to resolve the situation. Write an email to Mr. Anderson. In your email, do the following:

- Describe the incident that caused the book damage and the extent of the damage to the book.
- Explain your concern about the consequences for damaging the book.
- Ask about the steps you should take to resolve the situation.

Dear Mr. Anderson,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing to inform you that I accidentally damaged a book I recently borrowed from the university library. While I was studying, I spilled a small amount of tea on the desk, and some of it reached the lower corner of the book. A few pages are now slightly stained and wrinkled, although the text is still readable. I feel very sorry about this accident because I understand that library materials are shared by many students and should be returned in good condition. I am also concerned about possible fees or replacement requirements. Could you please let me know what steps I should take to resolve the situation? I am willing to pay for repair or replacement if necessary.

Sincerely,

21.

You are a regular customer at a local bakery and have always enjoyed their products. Recently, you bought a cake for your favorite professor, but it did not meet your expectations. You want to provide feedback to the bakery owner, Ms. Lopez, and suggest improvements. Write an email to Ms. Lopez. In your email, do the following:

- Explain what you usually enjoy about their products.
- Describe the issues you had with your recent cake purchase.
- Suggest how they could improve the quality of their cakes.

Dear Ms. Lopez,

I hope you are well. I am a regular customer at your bakery, and I have always enjoyed your pastries and cakes. I especially appreciate the fresh ingredients, creative decorations, and friendly service. However, I recently bought a cake from your bakery as a gift for my favorite professor, and unfortunately it did not meet my expectations. The decoration was beautiful, but the cake itself was rather dry, and the flavor was not as rich as usual. Since I have had many positive experiences with your bakery before, I thought it would be helpful to share this feedback. Perhaps the cakes could be checked more carefully for freshness before pickup. I would also suggest offering customers clearer flavor descriptions when they order.

Best regards,

22.

You are planning a trip with your classmates to a popular tourist destination during your semester break. You need to book accommodations and ensure the hotel can meet your group's needs. You want to contact the hotel to confirm these details. Write an email to the hotel manager, Mr. Carter. In your email, do the following:

- Explain the purpose of your trip and the number of people in your group.
- Explain your group's specific requirements.
- Request the hotel send any additional information needed.

Dear Mr. Carter,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing because my classmates and I are planning a trip to a popular tourist destination during our semester break, and we are interested in booking accommodations at your hotel. Our group will include twelve students, and the purpose of the trip is to relax after exams while also visiting several cultural and historical sites in the area. Before we make a reservation, I would like to confirm whether your hotel can meet our needs. We would prefer several shared rooms, affordable rates for students, free Wi-Fi, and breakfast if possible. Some students may also need vegetarian meal options. Could you please send me information about room availability, group discounts, cancellation policies, and any additional requirements for booking?

Best regards,

23.

A new poetry magazine has asked its readers for submissions, and you decided to submit two of your poems. However, you had a problem using the online submission form, and you are not certain that your submissions were received. Write an email to the editor of the magazine. In your email, do the following. ● Tell the editor what you like about the new magazine. ● Describe the problem you experienced. ● Ask about the status of your submissions.

Dear Editor,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing because I recently tried to submit two of my poems to your new poetry magazine, but I am not sure whether the submissions were received successfully. First, I would like to say that I really appreciate the concept of your magazine. I like that it gives new writers a chance to share their work, and the poems you have published so far feel creative and emotionally honest. However, when I used the online submission form, I experienced a technical problem. After I uploaded my files and clicked submit, the page kept loading and did not show a confirmation message. Could you please let me know whether my poems were received? I would be happy to resend them if necessary.

Best regards,

24.

Your coworker, Kevin, recently recommended a new restaurant for your team to visit. You took the team there, but everyone was disappointed. The food was not as good as expected, and the service was slow. You need to inform Kevin about the situation and discuss future lunch options. Write an email to Kevin. In your email, do the following. ● Explain what was wrong with the restaurant. ● Describe the team's reaction to the visit. ● Suggest alternative lunch arrangements.

Hi Kevin,

I hope you're doing well. I wanted to let you know how yesterday's lunch at the restaurant you recommended went. Unfortunately, the experience was not as good as we expected. The food arrived late, and several dishes were cold by the time they reached the table. Also, the service was quite slow, so we had to wait a long time before anyone checked on us. The team was a bit disappointed because we had planned the lunch as a relaxing break from work, but it ended up feeling rushed and frustrating. Of course, I know you recommended the place with good intentions. For our next team lunch, maybe we could choose a place we have already tried or ask everyone to suggest one option first.

Best,

25.

You are planning a business trip to another city. Your colleague, Maria, recently traveled to the same city for work. You want to ask her recommendations for places to eat and things to do during your free time. Write an email to Maria. In your email, do the following: • Explain why you are traveling to the city. • Ask for her recommendations about restaurants and activities. • Mention what you'd most like to do and what you'd like to avoid.

26.

You have been working on a group project with several classmates for a course. One of your group members, Alex, has not been participating actively and has missed several assignments. You want to address this issue and find a solution. Write an email to Alex. In your email, do the following: • Describe the current progress of the group project. • Explain how his lack of participation is affecting the group. • Suggest ways he can contribute to the project moving forward.

27.

You are a member of the neighborhood association, and you have noticed that the local park needs some maintenance. You decide to contact the association president, Mr. Williams, to discuss the issues and offer a suggestion. Write an email to Mr. Williams. In your email, do the following: • Describe the maintenance issue you have observed in the park. • Explain why it is important to address the issue. • Make a suggestion for how to deal with the issue.

Dear Mr. Williams,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing as a member of the neighborhood association to mention a maintenance issue I recently noticed in the local park. Several benches near the walking path are damaged, and there is also some litter around the playground area. These issues may seem small, but I think they should be addressed soon because many families, children, and older residents use the park regularly. If the park is not clean and safe, people may stop using it, and the neighborhood could lose an important public space. I suggest organizing a small volunteer cleanup day and asking the city maintenance department to repair the broken benches. I would be happy to help coordinate volunteers if needed.

Best regards,

28.

You are a student organizing a study group for an upcoming exam. You want to invite your classmates to join the group and explain to them your ideas about how the group should proceed. Write an email to your classmates. In your email, do the following: • Explain the purpose of the study group. • Describe the topics you plan to cover during the study sessions and other ideas you have for the sessions. • Suggest a time and location for the first meeting.

Hi everyone,

I hope you are all doing well. Since our upcoming exam is getting closer, I would like to organize a study group for anyone who wants to review the material together. The purpose of the group is to help us prepare more effectively by discussing difficult topics, comparing notes, and practicing possible exam questions. I think we should focus first on the chapters the professor emphasized in class, especially the sections that include key definitions and problem-solving exercises. We could also divide the topics so each person explains one part to the group. I suggest that we meet this Friday at 4 p.m. in the library study room on the second floor. Please let me know if you are interested or if another time works better.

Best,

29.

You recently attended a workshop on digital marketing and found it to be very informative. You want to thank the presenter, Ms. Clark, and ask for additional resources to further your understanding of the topic. Write an email to Ms. Clark. In your email, do the following: • Thank her for the workshop. • Provide a detailed explanation of why you found the workshop to be informative. • Ask for additional resources or recommendations for further study.

Dear Ms. Clark,

I hope you are doing well. I wanted to thank you for the digital marketing workshop you presented recently. I found it very informative because you explained the main concepts clearly and connected them to real examples. I especially appreciated the section about social media strategy and audience engagement, since it helped me understand how companies plan their content instead of posting randomly. Your explanation of search engine optimization was also useful because it showed how small changes in wording can affect online visibility. I would like to continue learning about this topic in more depth. Could you please recommend any books, websites, or online courses that would help me build a stronger foundation in digital marketing? Thank you again for your helpful presentation.

Best regards,

30.

You are a university student working on a group project for one of your classes. One of your group members, Jake, has not been contributing to the project and has missed several meetings. This is affecting the progress of the project, and you need to address the issue with him. Write an email to Jake. In your email, do the following: • Describe the importance of the project. • Explain how his absence has affected the group's progress. • Suggest ways he can help the group.

31.

Your friend Emma has recently moved to a new city and is feeling a bit overwhelmed. She has reached out to you for advice on how to adjust to her new environment and make new friends. You have lived in several cities before, and you have experience with finding ways to settle into new places. Write an email to Emma. In your email, do the following: • Describe how you adjusted to a new city. • Give Emma suggestions on how she can make new friends. • Offer different ways to help her if she needs more advice.

Hi Emma,

I'm sorry to hear that you've been feeling overwhelmed since moving to your new city. I think that is completely normal, especially when everything around you feels unfamiliar at first. One thing that might help is creating a small routine, such as visiting the same café, grocery store, or park every week. Familiar places can make a new city feel less intimidating. You could also join a local class, volunteer group, or walking club to meet people naturally without too much pressure. I know it may take time to feel comfortable, so please don't be hard on yourself. If you want, we can also have a video call this weekend and talk more about how things are going.

Best,

32.

You recently attended a concert by your favorite band at a local venue. You want to thank the event organizer, Mr. Harris, for arranging the event and provide feedback on what you enjoyed most. Write an email to Mr. Harris. In your email, do the following: • Thank him for organizing the concert. • Describe what you enjoyed most about the event. • Suggest any improvements for future events.

33.

You are a student who has been working on a research project and need to request an extension on the deadline from your professor, Dr. Jones. You have encountered some unexpected challenges that have delayed your progress. Write an email to Dr. Jones. In your email, do the following: • Ask for an extension on the deadline. • Provide details about the challenges you have encountered. • Suggest a new deadline and offer to provide updates on your progress.

Dear Professor,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing to ask whether it would be possible to receive a short extension for the research project deadline. I have been working on the project and have already completed the outline and most of the background research. However, I have had difficulty finishing the final analysis because I needed more time to review the sources carefully and organize my argument. I do not want to submit work that is rushed or incomplete, especially because this project is important for the course. Would it be possible to submit the assignment two days later than the original deadline? I understand that extensions are not always possible, and I would appreciate any guidance you can provide.

Sincerely,

34.

You have recently moved into a new apartment and are experiencing issues with the heating system. You need to contact the property manager, Ms. Green, to report the problem and request a repair. Write an email to Ms. Green. In your email, do the following: • Describe the issues you are experiencing with the heating system. • Explain how these issues are affecting your daily life. • Request a repair and ask for a timeline for when it will be fixed.

35.

You are a student starting a new semester, and you would like some additional information about a course you are interested in that is taught by Dr. Adams. You want to ensure that the course is suitable for you. Write an email to Dr. Adams. In your email, do the following: •

Explain why you are interested in the course. • Ask for the additional information you would like to have about the course. • Thank Dr. Adams for taking the time to respond.

Dear Professor,

I hope you are doing well. I am writing to ask for more information about your course next semester. I am very interested in enrolling because the topic seems closely related to my academic interests, and I believe it could help me develop useful knowledge and skills. Before I register, I would like to ask about the course expectations. Could you please let me know what kinds of assignments students usually complete, such as exams, presentations, or research papers? I would also appreciate it if you could tell me whether any background knowledge is recommended before taking the class. This information would help me decide whether the course is a good fit for my current schedule and preparation level. Thank you very much for your time.

Best regards,